

About Me

I've always had a passion for photography and consider myself a lucky man to have a career doing what I love.

After studying photography in Cheshire and Plymouth I worked in studios and as a freelance photographer, but the surfer in me missed the coast. The opportunity came to move to the beautiful Island of Jersey, and I got to experience events from a new perspective working in hospitality. I've helped organise hundreds of events – from intimate family gatherings to large corporate functions, weddings & christenings.

When I returned to photography full-time I realised I could bring this experience to your special occasions. I understand how important your event is to you, and am happy to dedicate my time to making sure that you get everything you need from me, both before and during the shoot.

I want to help you capture your cherished moments forever, and to help you, your family and friends get the most from each occasion.
